Download QMobile A4 USB Driver from here, install it in your computer and connect your device with PC or Laptop successfully.. And chose the 'Linksys RangePlus Wireless USB Network Adapter ' And clicked ok It warned about that it may not work.. Thanks G I just want to confirm this solution worked for me in Windows 7 Professional, x64.. HOWEVER ive fixed it I used a different driver from Linksys Heres what i did, Went to device manager.. Now as soon as i closed the device manager it was flahing away and can now pick up and see wireless networks in my task manager.
